JOURNALS

Many of the journals in the library are useful for humanities students. Current journals are on display in alphabetical order near the desk. Archived or journals are shelved at the back of the library.

THESES

There are social care, culinary arts and tourism theses in the library. Titles are listed on the library catalogue. Theses are for library use only.

ELECTRONIC RESOURCES

New electronic resources include Discover! (Ebsco Discovery Service) & E-Book Central. Search these resources both on and off campus:

Discover!

Simultaneously searches across multiple library databases. Searches books, journal articles, e-books and more! Provides a Google-like search experience using one search box to discover credible and reliable content.

E-Book Central

Our e-books package contains thousands of e-books on all subjects including art and architecture, business and finance, computers and IT, engineering and technology, history, language and literature, law, health sciences, physical sciences, social sciences and more.

Access individual electronic journal databases from the databases page of the library website:

- ◆ Go to <https://library.lit.ie/>
- ◆ Click Find > Databases

The databases relevant to humanities include:

- ◆ Academic Search Complete (EBSCO)
- ◆ SocIndex (EBSCO)
- ◆ Omnifile (EBSCO)
- ◆ Emerald
- ◆ Science Direct (Elsevier)

We also subscribe to Web of Knowledge, a searchable citation database composed of The Science, Social Science & Arts & Humanities Citation Index. This resource is particularly relevant for research level students.

OFF-CAMPUS ACCESS

Off-campus access to our electronic resources is available 24/7. Log on with your student number and password.
